COURSE TASKS:

1. Unit Exams: Complete three (3) in-class exams. Each exam will consist of matching questions, short answer questions, and essay questions (history of philosophy questions, analysis questions, evaluation questions, application questions, comparison/contrast questions). Questions for the exams will be drawn from unit study guides (based on reading assignments, lectures, texts, paperbacks, movies) that will be distributed two weeks prior to the exams. Make-up exams will only be given in cases of illness (with a doctor's note) or valid emergency. There is no comprehensive final exam for this course.
2. Case studies: Write your answers to discussion questions for three (3) case studies which will require you to apply concepts/theories to actual cases, defend a point of view regarding what is right and wrong, analyze the quality of the reasoning in the cases. Answers for this assignment need to be typewritten. (Handwritten work will not be accepted for credit. Late work will be penalized five (5) points per week for each week that the assignment is late.)
3. Reaction Papers: Write four (4) reaction papers based on articles from newspapers, journals, and books. This assignment will require you to (a) explain how the article relates to one of the concepts in the course, (b) discuss what you consider to be the most pertinent facts in the article, (c) identify concerns/issues in the article, (d) write a two paragraph reaction to one of the concerns/issues raised in the article. Answers for this assignment need to be typewritten. Deadline for this task is the fourteenth week of the semester.
4. In-class Work: Participate regularly in a variety of in-class activities. These activities include: class discussion, group work, video worksheets, in-class exercises, quizzes, writing assignments, and other forms of class work. Since these are in-class activities, they cannot be made up if missed.

MODE OF INSTRUCTION:

In this course, students will learn the history of moral philosophy, rudiments of moral reasoning, and analytical and critical thinking skills.

Classes will combine lectures with discussions. Lectures will focus on ethical theories, ethical issues, philosophical methodology, moral principle, and on topical reading assignments. Discussions and brief writing assignments (in-class), on the other hand, will provide students with an opportunity to critically analyze and/or apply ethical concepts/theories, identify moral issues, and employ philosophical methodology.

Guest speakers and/or audio/visual materials will be incorporated when appropriate.

METHOD OF GRADING:

1. Criteria for evaluating course work:
 - a. Grasp of the problem/concept/topic.
 - b. Logic and persuasiveness of the presentation.
 - c. Perceptiveness in seeing and weighing various alternative interpretations.
 - d. Demonstration of critical analysis.
 - e. Clarity with which the topic/concept was discussed.

2. Weight of tasks:

Unit Exams	100 = (2 x 50)
Case Studies	150 = (3 x 50)
Reaction Papers	100 = (4 x 25)
In-class Work	100
Attendance	60
	510

Phil. 101 Course Outcomes, 7

METHOD OF GRADING:

3. Letter grades will be assigned based on the number of points accumulated for the course.

A: 438 - 510

B: 365 - 437

C: 292 - 364

D: 219 - 291

F: 146 - 218

W: Official withdrawal from the course. (This option must be initiated by the student.)

LEARNING RESOURCES AND MATERIALS:

1. Recommended texts:
Albert, Denise, Peterfreund. Great Traditions In Ethics (6th ed.)
Ehrenreich, B. Nickel and Dimed
Hospers, J. Human Conduct
2. Required texts:
Boss, J. Ethics For Life (6th ed.)
Keyes, D. Flowers For Algernon
Schlink, B. The Reader
3. Supplementary reprints will be assigned as appropriate.
Recommended reading materials should be read for perspective.
4. Study guides (based on reading assignments, lectures, text, paperbacks, movies, handouts) for each unit will be disseminated in class 2 weeks prior to each exam. Unit exam questions will be drawn from these unit study guides.

OTHER INFORMATION:

1. Office hours:
to be announced in class.
2. Reading Assignments:
Moderate to heavy. Reading assignments are considered "heavy" in that they require thoughtful reflection and critical analysis.
3. Class Attendance:
The subject matter of this course is intellectually challenging and students who miss classes regularly rarely do well.
4. Class Preparation:
Students are expected to prepare adequately for each class. This means that reading and/or writing assignments should be completed so that they can be discussed by the next class.
5. Inappropriate Behavior:
You may lose up to five (5) points per class period for non-participation in activities or distracting rude behavior, which includes but is not limited to:
 - 1) leaving your cell phone ringer on
 - 2) answering your cell phone
 - 3) text messaging
 - 4) talking while a classmate or the instructor presents information
 - 5) making disparaging or inappropriate remarks.
6. How To Succeed In This Course:
 - a. Keep up with reading and writing assignments.
 - b. Attend class regularly and take "good notes".
 - c. Participate in class discussions.
7. Learning Assistance:
Seek assistance with your learning problems as soon as they are encountered.
