Additional program specific requirements may need to be completed prior to graduation. Credit awards will be based on courses completed with a grade of 'C' or higher.

Statement on Local Community College Transfer Credit Awards Exceeding 60 Credits

Students from community colleges are generally allowed to transfer up to 60 semester hours in academic subjects. Students completing coursework under an articulation agreement between their current college and Hawaii Pacific University may, in specific cases, be awarded up to 79 transfer credits. Under these circumstances, the student's last 45 credits toward a bachelor's degree must be taken at Hawaii Pacific University and be at the upper division (300-400) level. Community college courses are normally awarded as lower division credit, however courses that are transferred to replace upper level coursework at Hawaii Pacific University may, after meeting certain criteria, be granted as upper division. Additional program specific requirements may need to be completed prior to graduation. Credit awards will be based on courses completed with a grade of 'C' or higher.
