ABOUT YOUR INSTRUCTOR

My name is Paul Briggs and I do love Economics and especially teaching this subject. I was born and raised in Southern and Northern California and moved to Hawaii in 1992. I love hiking, tennis and cycling and of course, spending time with my wife of 25 years (Liane).

About This Course

CATALOG DESCRIPTION: Study of the economic forces that determine a country's income, employment and prices. Roles of consumers, businesses, banks and governments are explored.

Course Learning Outcomes

After successfully completing this course, you will be able to:

1. Translate important macroeconomic terms and theories into various forms.
2. Identify, explore and analyze macroeconomic concepts using economic analysis and research.

Course Format

This is a 16 week asynchronous course. This course is designed to teach you the basic underpinnings of markets in terms of consumer and producer behavior. The course will be set up in weekly units generally covering a chapter per week. There will be regular forum assignments that will ask you to address discussion points regarding the chapter as well as selected current events. I will also require you to write two Article Analysis papers. There will also be two midterms and a final exam. All of these assignments will be explained in the Course Tasks and Requirements section of this syllabus. Announcements will be sent out after I grade each assignment to you detailing how I graded the assignment along with other relevant information. All due dates will be based on Hawaiian Standard Time (HST).

Course Policies

Participating in our Learning Community

There will be weekly discussions in which you will be able to communicate with each other as well. There will be two types of weekly discussions:

- Reading Checks-These will be chapter based with a focus on chapter summaries and response to discussion prompts. You will do one response to the class due on Thursdays by 11 pm and one response to another student due on Saturdays by 11 pm.
- Discussion Forums- These will be discussions based on selected topics that have economic applications. You will do one response due the class due on Thursdays by 11 pm and two responses to other students due on Saturdays by 11 pm.

Discussion activity will help sharpen your critical thinking and written communication skills as you study microeconomic topics. From time to time, as current events unfold, additional discussion questions related to the course material may be posted to discussions. These questions should be answered as well.

The more interaction with one another in each discussion, the better. Substantive contributions are defined as those responses providing statements that enhance ongoing discussion of the forum's topics, thus enabling the discussion to build throughout the class. Responses should include demonstration of the forum's topical information as well as how to apply topics covered.

How can the student make substantive contributions?

1. A student can agree – providing additional substance to the conversation while building upon the previous students comments.
2. A student can disagree (in a professional nature of course) – stating why a different interpretation is better.
3. Or, students can re-direct the discussion towards another vantage point presenting additional factors. Many times, a discussion will be redirected or enhanced by someone bringing up a viewpoint that some had not considered before. Thus, the conversation continues.

Students must be interactive, not only with the instructor, but with other students. Expand or redirect discussions as they relate to class. Offer some real-world experience that supports theory or flies in the face of theory. Use critical thinking and possibly come up with new ideas.

Participation is defined as your well thought out responses to classmates and other contributions you make to the discussions. We can learn much from each other, but only if we put forth effort and share our discoveries as we move through the semester. Be sure to read the initial responses posted by your classmates.

Assessment & Grading

LAULIMA READING CHECKS: (10% of your grade). I require a reading check for each chapter to be done within a specified period of time on LAULIMA FORUMS. These assignments will be worth 10 points each. You will be required to write a summary of each chapter (50 word min) and then respond to at least one (one response) other student's summary (25 words min). The summary will include the main points of the chapter along with anything that you find interesting (i.e real world applications) or confusing about the chapter (To get full credit, you must address these items). I will also ask some directed questions for the Reading Checks as well. The summaries will be done on Thursdays and the response will be due on Saturday. The responses will be due two days after the summaries are due. The due time will be 11 pm on the specified due date (Thursdays for the summary and Saturdays for the response). LATE WORK WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED.

I will send a final announcement on Sunday for the Reading Check due the previous week. In that announcement, I will also give out answers to the practice questions in the handout for that week. While the practice questions will not be a graded assignment (it is for the face to face class), it will be helpful for you to work on these problems as that will help you on future exams. I may also ask you about selected practice questions for the reading checks.

LAULIMA DISCUSSION FORUMS: 10% of your grade. These journal assignments will ask your opinion and/or understanding of some applied areas of economics that we will cover in the course. These journal assignments will be designed to encourage discussion via an Internet forum as there is often not time to cover these areas in class. To facilitate discussion, I will post articles and/or videos on a current event (i.e the Coronavirus). There will be five of these assignments (An Introduction Forum and four Discussion Forums). Each assignment will be 20 points apiece, with 10 points for a thread posting (start new conversation) and 5 points each for responses to another student's thread posting (2 responses). Topic postings need to be at least 50 words in length and responses will be at least 25 words in length. The due time will be 11 pm on the specified due date (Thursdays for the summary and Saturdays for the response). LATE WORK WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED.

QUIZZES: 10% of your grade. There will be a short 10 question quiz on each chapter to be done in Laulima Tests and Quizzes. You will have 3 chances to do each quiz and I will count your highest score. Due date and time for the QUIZZES will be Saturday nights at 11 pm.

TESTS: 40% of the grade. There will be TWO MIDTERMS each worth 100 points (10% of the grade each) and a final exam worth 200 points (20% of the grade-cumulative). Tests may be in varying formats ranging from multiple choice to essay questions. Midterm exams will take 75 minutes and the Final exam will take 2 hours.

Normally, online tests will be taken at the WCC Testing Center. However, social distancing requirements due to the ongoing Coronavirus pandemic mean that the Testing Center can only allow a fraction of the normal student capacity to take exams. Thus your exams will be taken at home during the test taking period (typically one week) under strict time guidelines (75 minutes for midterms and 2 hours for the final). Exam questions will be generated randomly from a LAULIMA Question Pool so no two students will receive the same exam questions.

ARTICLE ANALYSES: (20% of your grade). There will be two article analyses due during the semester on the various topics that we have covered up to that point. Instructions for this assignment are included in your handout.

CAREER PAPER: (10% of your grade). There will be a career paper in which you will explore 2 careers that you could pursue in the future.

Due dates for papers and drafts will be on the Lulima course site.

Specific instructions are included in the handout (and the Lulima course site) for each assignment (Article Analysis and Career Paper).

Evaluation and Feedback

I will attempt to evaluate your assignment promptly and through comments via the appropriate Lulima assessment tool. Once I have completed all of the evaluations for an assignment, I will send out an announcement to the entire class saying that I have done so along with any other relevant information.

Late Work and Missed Assessments

Reading Checks and Forums are always due on Thursdays and Saturdays at 11 pm. I will accept late entries (reduced credit) between Thursdays and Saturdays, but not after the Saturday due date as a general rule. I will accept late paper submissions after the due date, but for reduced credit. Remember that all work must be turned in via the appropriate Lulima assessment tool. Regarding examinations, I will give a window of one week in order to complete the exam via Lulima Tests and Quizzes. If you need to take the exam after the exam window, please let me know in advance.

Extra Credit

Generally, I provide extra credit on the reading checks/forums through doing the practice tests that are listed on that week's lesson page. These practice tests (and extra worksheets for some chapters) are an opportunity to practice your skills in Economics. The practice tests are pdf documents, you should submit them as marked documents. Here is my video showing you how to do this.

I know the amount of work in this class may seem overwhelming to you right now, but I will structure the assignments in such a way that you will have plenty of chances to succeed in this course. My style is to have a lot of little assignments as opposed to a few large assignments that consequently put a lot of pressure on your grade. I will always be around to help you complete the assignments in a timely and professional manner.

All of your assignments will be presented to you on Lulima, typically through the weekly lesson page. The lesson page will have an introduction to the chapter, videos and assignments for you to do. The lesson page will also have a checklist to make it easier for you to manage your assignments.

Here is a summary of the various assignments/ resources, their location and due dates/times.
