CATALOG DESCRIPTION

A general study of the social, political and economic development of Hawai'i from the ancient Hawaiians to the present. This course meets the Diversification-Humanities (DH) requirement.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

Students will:

1. Describe, analyze and interpret the major themes in history of Hawai'i from the pre-contact period to the present.
2. Critically analyze primary sources.
3. Identify important individuals and events in the history of Hawai'i.
4. Make connections between contemporary events and Hawai'i's history.

HAWAIIAN, ASIAN AND PACIFIC (HAP) HALLMARKS

At least two-thirds of a class must satisfy the following:

1. The content should reflect the intersection of Asian and/or Pacific Island cultures with Native Hawaiian culture.
2. A course can use any disciplinary or multi-disciplinary approach provided that a component of the course uses assignments or practica that encourage learning that comes from the cultural perspectives, values, and world views rooted in the experience of peoples indigenous to Hawai‘i, the Pacific, and Asia.
3. A course should include at least one topic that is crucial to an understanding of the histories, or cultures, or beliefs, or the arts, or the societal, or political, or economic, or technological processes of these regions; for example, the relationships of societal structures to the natural environment.
4. A course should involve an in-depth analysis or understanding of the issues being studied in the hope of fostering multi-cultural respect and understanding.

WRITING INTENSIVE (WI) HALLMARKS

Pre-requisite: Grade of C or better in ENG 100

1. The class uses writing to promote the learning of course materials
2. The class provides interaction between the instructor and students while students do assigned writing.
3. Written assignments contribute significantly to each student’s course grade.
4. The class requires students to do a substantial amount of writing—a minimum of 4,000 words, or about 16 pages
5. To allow for meaningful professor-student interaction on each student’s writing, the class is restricted to 20 students.

COURSE TASKS

Quizzes

To help you learn the new material presented in readings, lectures and videos, there will be 16 quizzes that will include multiple choice, matching, short answer, true/false and fill-in-the-blank type questions (worth 5 points each). Quizzes will be opened each Monday at 12:00 a.m. and must be completed the following Sunday by 11:55 p.m. These quizzes are meant to be low stakes opportunities to demonstrate that you understand the material. By releasing the questions at the start of the week you may preview them before you do the readings and view the videos to encourage active engagement with the material as you seek the answers.

Writing Project

To teach writing as a process, there will be one writing project that will be done in three parts over the course of the semester to earn full credit. Each part of the assignment will require you to submit your paper via Google docs (see Writing Project assignment for specific details). You will need to meet specific deadlines for each part of this project. Late papers will not be accepted for Parts I & II because there will be peer reviews related to these. Late papers will be accepted for Part III, but will be assessed a penalty of five points for each day a paper is late.

Think/Writes

To help you make connections between your existing knowledge and the new information being acquired in this class, you will submit three Think/Write essays during the semester. These will give you the opportunity to share your experiences and points-of-view regarding the various issues raised in class. For each Think/Write you will be choosing from a list of four or five questions. You will be graded on your ability to communicate your ideas and to make specific reference to course content. These should be well organized, clearly written, and free of grammar and spelling errors. Each Think/Write should be about 400-500 words in length.

You will post each Think/Write using the Forums tool in Lualima by 11:55 p.m. on the day it's due. Be mindful that your readers for these Think/Writes are your classmates and the instructor. To encourage the sharing of your own ideas, you will not be able to see what your classmates have posted until you submit yours. You are encouraged to read all the Think/Writes posted by your classmates to learn from each other, but you will only be commenting on two of them for class assignment points. If you choose the 'Ike Kaiāulu option, you will write journals instead of Think/Writes. Late Think/Writes (or 'Ike Kaiāulu Journals) will not be accepted.

Class Assignments

To encourage participation and demonstrate understanding of the material, there will be class assignments. These assignments vary in points (5 to 10 points) depending on the level of difficulty and the time needed to complete each assignment.

Extra Credit Option (maximum of 20 points)

Students are encouraged to watch for articles, videos and events for reaction paper topics. If you find anything relating to this history course and would like to write an extra credit reaction paper on it, you should consult with the instructor first to verify its relevance. You may also answer additional Think/Write questions for extra credit. A typical extra credit assignment is worth 10 points and usually consists of a reaction paper (250-300 words in length). You may submit these throughout the semester. The last day to submit any extra credit is the Monday of the last week of classes. Students who choose the 'Ike Kaiāulu option will write an end-of-semester final reflection journal that will count as their full 20 extra credit points.

'Ike Kaiāulu Option

Windward Community College's 'Ike Kaiāulu Community Engagement Program encourages students to serve their community. If you choose this option you will need to complete a minimum of 20 hours of service during the semester at an approved site/program. If you are already engaged in your community, and you think that it could apply to this course, you should meet with the instructor to discuss the possibility of continuing that relationship for this class. Students selecting this option will write three reflection journals instead of Think/Writes and will write an end-of-semester final reflection journal that will count as their full 20 extra credit points. The deadline for deciding on this option is 5 days before the first Think/Write is due.

There will be 89 pages assigned from each of the two books listed below, and they will be provided as pdfs. If, however, you would like to read beyond what is required for this course, you are welcome to purchase these books to add to your personal library.

- Daws, Gavan. Shoal of Time: A History of the Hawaiian Islands. Honolulu: University of Hawai'i Press, 1968. This book is still in print and readily available. An inexpensive used copy can easily be found online or in used bookstores.
- Kame'eleihiwa, Lilikāla. Native Land and Foreign Desires: Pehea Lā e Pono Ai? Honolulu: Bishop Museum Press, 1992. This book is out of print, but an e-book can be purchased directly from <https://bishopmuseumpress.org/collections/ebooks> for $9.99.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

This is an accelerated 8 week online asynchronous course. Students should expect to spend about 12-16 hours each week on this course, which will include readings, videos, class assignments, quizzes, and papers.

This course fulfills the Hawaiian, Asian and Pacific (HAP) graduation requirement in that it provides a native voice to Hawaiian history and includes topics about the Pacific and Asia in 5 of the 8 weeks. It transfers to UH-Mānoa, UH-West O'ahu, and the UH Community Colleges that have a HAP requirement (Honolulu, Kapi'olani, Kaua'i, Leeward, Maui).

As a Writing Intensive (WI) course, you will be expected to write a minimum of 4,000 words (about 16 pages) of formal writing. Writing will account for 180 of the 400 potential points in this class, or 45% of your grade.

- You will be expected to meet with the instructor about your writing at least once in the semester, either in-person or via zoom, at a time convenient to both of us.
- You may submit drafts of your Think/Writes and Writing Project to the instructor for review and feedback, but drafts will only be accepted up to three days prior to a paper's deadline to allow sufficient time for review and changes.
- Late papers will not be accepted in this class. The only exception to this rule is Writing Project (Part 3), which will be accepted late, but with a five point penalty for each day that it's late.

ADVICE FOR A SUCCESSFUL SEMESTER

Complete the reading assignments and watch the video lectures during the week they are assigned. This will enable you to complete the class assignments. Marking up your readings and taking notes when watching the videos may help you learn the new information being presented.

Ask questions. Don't be afraid to ask questions. All inquiries will be welcomed by the instructor. Please ask for if you need clarification on the information presented and the assignments given. It is the students' responsibility to let the instructor know when they are confused. If you say nothing, I assume you understand the content and the requirements.

Be mindful of deadlines. Do not procrastinate! Students are responsible for knowing when papers are due. Do not miss the due dates for the writing assignments in this course, since it is nearly impossible to make up the points. Only 20 extra credit points are allowed in this course, therefore it is not practical to think that you can make up the missed points with extra credit. As your instructor, I can tell you that this strategy rarely works.

Talk to the instructor. I am here to assist you. Feel free to talk to me if you are having any difficulties in class. Even if you are not having difficulties, you are invited to call me, stop by my office, or make an appointment. While I will schedule an appointment to meet with each one of you to provide individualized feedback on your writing project, I invite you to schedule additional appointments to discuss other concerns or historical interests. Let's get to know each other.

Be considerate. While this class is an online asynchronous class, and most of the course work can be completed on your own, there will be assignments that will require you to engage with your classmates. For these assignments, please be respectful of your classmates when responding to their postings. Be mindful that each of us have unique backgrounds and experiences that inform our perspectives. Let's learn from each other. The instructor will strive to create a supportive and encouraging online learning environment, and reserves the right to remove postings that are deemed inappropriate.

Be honest. Academic integrity is expected. Students should consult the Student Conduct Code for specific examples of cheating and plagiarism. Work submitted by a student must be the student's own work. The work of others should be explicitly marked, such as through use of quotes or summarizing with reference to the original author. Students will receive a failing grade for plagiarized assignments. All cases of academic dishonesty are referred to the Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs.

Check your email regularly. Please note that important information from the college and your instructor will be sent to your hawaii.edu e-mail address. Faculty are required to use this e-mail address when corresponding with their students. If you don't regularly check that e-mail and would prefer to receive your messages through a non-University account that you already have, you may forward mail from hawaii.edu. Go to How do I setup email forwarding...? for specific directions on how to do it. Email messages sent to the instructor will receive a response within 24 hours, excluding excluding weekends and holidays.
